PBA new season kicks off

PBA Commissioner Robert Tan
 said the league's new season
 will be a "great success" if it can attract more fans and sponsors.

By Ben Tan

THE 2009-2010 season of the Philippine Basketball Association (PBA) kicked off today with the season's first game between the San Miguel Beermen and the Rain or Shine Eligible. The game was held at the Araneta Coliseum in Quezon City.

PBA Commissioner Robert Tan
 said the league's new season
 will be a "great success" if it
 can attract more fans and sponsors. He said the league is looking for ways to make the game more exciting and competitive.

The first game of the season was a close contest between the San Miguel Beermen and the Rain or Shine Eligible.
 The Beermen won the game with a score of 85-78. The game was a sell-out, with more than 10,000 fans in attendance.

Visa privilege seen to boost Sino visitors

By Geronimo Ang

MANILA, Philippines — The Chinese government's decision to grant visa privileges to Philippine tourists is seen as a major boost for the country's tourism industry, according to the Philippine Travel Association (PTA).

The PTA president, Manuel S. Lopez, said that the move is a significant step towards strengthening the ties between the two countries. He noted that the Philippines has been a popular destination for Chinese tourists for many years, and this move is expected to further increase the number of visitors.

Lopez also mentioned that the Philippines has been working to improve its tourism infrastructure and services to attract more Chinese tourists. He said that the country's rich cultural heritage and beautiful landscapes are major draws for Chinese visitors.

The PTA is optimistic that this move will lead to a significant increase in the number of Chinese tourists visiting the Philippines. It is also expected that this will boost the country's tourism revenue and create more jobs in the industry.

British tourists up despite warnings

MANILA, Philippines — Despite warnings from the British government about the security situation in the Philippines, the number of British tourists visiting the country has increased significantly, according to the Philippine Travel Association (PTA).

The PTA president, Manuel S. Lopez, said that the increase in British tourists is a testament to the country's safety and the quality of its tourism services. He noted that the Philippines has been working to improve its tourism infrastructure and services to attract more international tourists.

Lopez also mentioned that the Philippines has been a popular destination for British tourists for many years. He said that the country's rich cultural heritage and beautiful landscapes are major draws for British visitors.

The PTA is optimistic that this trend will continue, and it is also expected that this will boost the country's tourism revenue and create more jobs in the industry.

Sayer, Ukuma cop titles

MATTHE Sayer and Peng Peng said "You are U.S.A. and Japan ruled these regions, now it's time to rule the future together." They're the winners of the 1996 Junior U.S. Open Tennis Championships in San Francisco.

The 16-year-old Sayer, whose parents are from Taiwan, and the 15-year-old Peng, who is from China, won the boys' doubles title.

U.S. Open tennis champion Andre Agassi said Sayer and Peng were "very impressive." He said they were "very confident and very strong."

Sayer and Peng won the title by defeating the defending champions, the U.S. duo of Mike Bryan and Mark Philippoussis.

The collage consists of several overlapping newspaper clippings. The most prominent one at the top left is from 'The New York Times', dated 'Jan. 10', with the headline 'El Niño's Rain Soaks the West'. Other clippings from 'The Washington Post' and 'The Los Angeles Times' are visible, discussing the 'rain-soaked' conditions and the resulting 'floods' and 'damage'. The text is somewhat blurry and overlapping, but the general theme is the impact of the 1994-1995 El Niño weather event.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the effect of the concentration of the inhibitor on the rate of polymerization. The x-axis is labeled "Concentration of inhibitor (mole/l)" and ranges from 0 to 0.002. The y-axis is labeled "Rate of polymerization (mole/l·hr)" and ranges from 0 to 0.001. There are three curves labeled 1, 2, and 3. Curve 1 is the highest, followed by curve 2, and then curve 3. All curves show a decrease in the rate of polymerization as the concentration of the inhibitor increases.

Figure 1 consists of nine histograms arranged in a 3x3 grid. Each histogram represents the distribution of the number of non-zero elements in the vector of the first 1000 rows of the matrix A . The rows are labeled with $\alpha = 0.0$, $\alpha = 0.1$, and $\alpha = 0.2$ from top to bottom. The columns are labeled with $\beta = 0.0$, $\beta = 0.1$, and $\beta = 0.2$ from left to right. The x-axis for all histograms is 'Number of non-zero elements' ranging from 0 to 1000. The y-axis is 'Frequency' ranging from 0 to 100. The histograms show that as α and β increase, the distribution of non-zero elements becomes more concentrated at lower values, with a peak around 100-200 non-zero elements.

The x-axis is labeled "Concentration of inhibitor" and ranges from 0 to 1.0. The curve starts at (0, 1.0) and decreases as the concentration of inhibitor increases, following a non-linear path that levels off towards a rate of approximately 0.4 at an inhibitor concentration of 1.0.

Angela Bofill sings with 'amazing' Pinoy artists

Angela Bofill, the American singer, is singing with Pinoy artists in a new album.

Angela Bofill with Pinoy artists.

"For the first time, Angela Bofill, the American singer, is singing with Pinoy artists in a new album.

The album, which is titled "Angela Bofill Sings with Pinoy Artists," features Bofill singing duets with several of the most popular Pinoy artists of the 1970s and 1980s.

Bofill, who has been singing for over 30 years, says she was inspired to record the album after seeing a performance by one of the Pinoy artists.

"I was blown away by their talent and their passion for their music," she says. "I wanted to collaborate with them and create something new and exciting."

The album features duets with artists such as Freddie Aguilar, Hiram Cruz, and Freddie Noyola. Bofill says she was honored to work with these legendary artists.

"They are true legends, and it was a privilege to sing with them," she says. "The album is a tribute to their music and to the Filipino people who love it so much."

The album is available in both CD and digital formats. Bofill says she hopes it will introduce Pinoy music to a wider audience and celebrate the rich musical heritage of the Philippines.

"I'm proud to be part of this project and to share the music of the Philippines with the world," she says. "It's a beautiful journey, and I'm grateful for everyone who has supported me along the way."

The album is set to be released in the Philippines and other Asian markets. Bofill says she is excited to see how it is received by Pinoy fans.

"I hope it will be a success and that it will bring joy to many people," she says. "I'm looking forward to seeing the album in stores and hearing the feedback from fans."

The album is a testament to the power of music to bring people from different cultures together. Bofill says she is proud to be a part of this special project.

"Music is a universal language, and it's wonderful to see how it can bridge the gap between different cultures and languages," she says. "I'm honored to be part of this project and to share the music of the Philippines with the world."

Hire the disabled and cut costs, disabled whiz urges

MANILA, Philippines — A former top executive of a major Philippine bank who has been blind since childhood is urging companies to hire disabled workers to cut costs and improve productivity. He says that hiring disabled workers can save companies up to 50 percent on salaries and benefits, and that they can be trained to perform a wide range of tasks. He also says that hiring disabled workers can help companies to attract and retain talent, and that it can be a win-win for everyone involved.

'Chicharong tahong' makes market debut

By Carmela Reyes
PDI General Union Desk

CITY OF MALOLOS—Bulacan, famous for its chicharong baboy (pork crackling) and chicharong bala ng tilapia (tilapia skin crackling), is now offering an alternative snack to patrons of local delicacies.

Chicharong tahong, cracklings made from muskels, made its debut during a food fair that presented 30 Tatak Bulakenyo products to the public in early September.

Chicharong tahong or tahong chips was created by members of the Women@Work Development Multi Purpose Cooperative Inc. based here.

Remedios Cruz, a former government employee who founded the cooperative in 2002, introduced the tahong chips to cooperative members.

Cruz says the cooperative introduced women in her community to livelihood, education and entrepreneurship activities.

The tahong chips come at 150 and 400-gram canisters and are sold for P15 and P70, respectively.

Cruz says their regular customers include various resorts and restaurants in Bulacan and Pampanga, shop owners in bus terminals, and office and hospital canteens in Metro Manila and Olongapo City.

Their cooperative earns between P5,000 and P8,000 a week selling tahong chips and other products like spicy fish crunch, fish teriyaki, sweet and spicy tumbling and peanut crunches.

Cruz says the Christmas season gives their cooperative brisk sales as orders from various offices pour in.

The WWDMPCI has 137 registered members who contribute P20 to P500 as capital to finance and run their organization and their local business.

She says the cooperative's seven regular staff members earn an average of P2,000 a month each in producing their products.

The cooperative plans to develop food products that will be marketed by each Bulacan town.

Cruz says the City of Malolos would market tahong chips.

The group is now starting to prepare a product derived from bangus cultured in Nagosoy town.

Earlier, Fisher Farms Inc., a subsidiary of FeedMia Nutrition Specialist, introduced the cholesterol-free chicharong bala ng tilapia.

Noel Malabanan, a Fisher Farms official, says they are now distributing chicharong tilapia to restaurants in Bulacan and Metro Manila.

For several years now, the towns of San Miguel, Baling, Sta. Maria, Bucare, San Rafael, and Guiguinto have been known for their chicharong baboy.

The other products under the "Tatak Bulakenyo" are atawang dampalit, atawang ampalaya, atawang papaya, sweet macapuno, sweet langka, sweet garbanzo, vinegar nectar, tomato jam, bagong alamang and bagong ada.

Other products are tinapang tilapia, catfish fillet, lengua de gato, polvoron de pinipig, chocolate drink, narva kakanin, pinipig de leche, casava cake, sukang Bulacan, fruit juice drink, honey bee products, bottled urdines and pandesal de Baling.

Gov. Josefina de la Cruz said the provincial government has asked the Department of Trade and Industry and the Department of Science and Technology to develop and marketing these products.

the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent. In 1990, 15 percent of the population was obese, but by 2000, that number had risen to 23 percent. And the trend is continuing. In 2008, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported that 33 percent of Americans were obese, up from 23 percent in 2000. The increase in obesity is a major public health concern because it is linked to a number of chronic diseases, including heart disease, diabetes, and certain types of cancer. The CDC also reports that obesity is the leading cause of death in the United States, accounting for 280,000 deaths each year.
